News Release

17th September 2008

BAA to sell Gatwick Airport

Airport operator BAA today announced plans to sell Gatwick Airport.

Colin Matthews, BAA's chief executive, said:

"We have decided to begin the process of selling Gatwick Airport immediately. Gatwick is one of Europe's premier airports, the busiest single-runway airport in the world, and it was used by 35 million passengers last year.

"Gatwick has long been an important and valuable part of BAA and the decision to sell was not taken lightly. We believe that the airport's customers, staff and business will benefit from the earliest possible resolution of current uncertainty.

"When the Competition Commission published its provisional findings, we said that we would be realistic in our response, though we disagree with the Commission's report and the analysis on which it is founded.

"We will continue to present our case, in respect of the South East airports and those in Scotland. At Stansted, we believe that a change of ownership would interfere with the process of securing planning approval for a second runway, which remains a key feature of Government air transport policy.

"The Commission itself states that a shortage of runway capacity in the South East is a main cause of poor service standards, but we believe its proposed remedies will delay delivery of that capacity.

"BAA will continue to change in many respects. We have a new management team. Our priority is to improve the quality of service we offer passengers and airlines.

"Success depends not only on our day to day management of our airports, but also on policy-makers taking the right decisions on runway capacity and future regulation.

"Our response to the Competition Commission's report, and our announcement concerning Gatwick, is intended to focus our efforts accordingly."

NOTA DE PRENSA

17 de septiembre de 2008

BAA venderá el aeropuerto de Gatwick

El gestor aeroportuario BAA ha anunciado hoy sus planes para vender el aeropuerto de Gatwick.

Colin Matthews, Consejero Delegado de BAA ha afirmado:

“Hemos decidido iniciar el proceso de venta del aeropuerto de Gatwick de inmediato. Gatwick es uno de los principales aeropuertos de Europa. Es el aeropuerto de una sola pista con mayor tránsito del mundo y por el que han pasado 35 millones de pasajeros el último año”.

“Gatwick ha sido durante mucho tiempo una importante y valiosa parte de BAA y la decisión de vender no se ha tomado a la ligera. Creemos que los usuarios de los aeropuertos, los trabajadores y el negocio se beneficiarán lo antes posible de una resolución frente a la actual incertidumbre”.

“Cuando la Comisión de Competencia publicó su dictamen provisional dijimos que seríamos realistas en nuestra respuesta aún estando en desacuerdo con el informe de la Comisión, así como con el análisis en el que está basado”.

“Continuaremos defendiendo nuestra posición en lo referente a los aeropuertos del sureste del Reino Unido y de Escocia. Con respecto a Stansted, creemos que un cambio de propietario interferiría en el proceso para la aprobación de una segunda pista, lo que constituye un elemento clave de la política de transporte aéreo del Gobierno”.

“La Comisión de la Competencia asegura que la falta de pistas de aterrizaje en el sureste del país es una de las principales razones por las que existe un servicio insatisfactorio, pero creemos que las soluciones propuestas retrasarán el aumento de capacidad”.

“BAA continuará cambiando en muchos aspectos. Tenemos un nuevo equipo de dirección. Nuestra prioridad es mejorar la calidad del servicio que ofrecemos a los pasajeros y a las aerolíneas”.

“El éxito depende no sólo de nuestra gestión del día a día en nuestros aeropuertos sino también de aquellos (policy-makers) que tienen que tomar la decisión correcta sobre la capacidad de las pistas de aterrizaje, así como de la futura regulación”.

“Nuestra respuesta al informe de la Comisión de la Competencia y este anuncio sobre Gatwick tienen la intención de centrar nuestros esfuerzos en este sentido”.
